

him. Both fell to the ground. The elite team still moved though with just the three still standing sledders.

It was very tough pushing this sled in a little less than a foot of snow. Andy, Dan and I came out from about last, all the way to the front line. About 3/4 of the way, Dan G and I looked over to see who we were tied for first with. It was a kid pushing a huge sled all by himself. Dan G and I pushed even harder. Finally, we were about the line. Andy let go of the rope and Dan and I gave one final push, and the sled crossed the line. We had gotten first
